About the Lecture

The presentation will recall the events and people thanks to whom Poland regained its statehood and returned to the map of the world as an independent state. It will discuss Józef Piłsudski, Roman Dmowski, Ignacy Paderewski, and U.S. President Woodrow Wilson, as well as lesser-known heroes: Gen. Tadeusz Rozwadowski, Gen. Stanisław Haller, Gen. Władysław Sikorski, and Ignacy Daszyński. The battles for Lwów, the Greater Poland and Silesian uprisings, and the war with the Bolsheviks in 1919-20 will also be included.

About the Lecturer

Andrzej Józef Dąbrowski is a regular associate of the Piłsudski Institute of America in New York. His work there involves describing archival collections. He is also a columnist for the New York weekly "Kurier Plus." He has been in America since 1989. Among other positions, he worked as editor of the Polish desk at "Nowy Dziennik" and as editor-in-chief of the biweekly "Głos." Before coming to the USA he worked in Poland as a theater critic and director. He was also involved with underground Solidarity publishing and with Program II of Radio Solidarność, for which he was awarded the "Semper Fidelis" Cross of Independence and the Cross of Freedom and Solidarity.
